

BOARD OF DIRECTOR MEMBER Andrea Hayes

The Soulard School would like to introduce board member Andrea Hayes. Andrea is an educator with extensive experience in a variety of levels from middle school to higher education. A professional who holds multiple degrees in her field, Andrea is a tenured award-winning educator with a passion for teaching and mentoring students of various cultures and generational differences. As an instructor she uses her experience in using backward design planning methodologies, data to drive instruction, and highly engaging interactive scaffold lessons using a variety of technology resources. Having an educator with such a great depth of knowledge and experience is important for the board, as she can provide guidance and references regarding the important decisions made regarding the school. Additionally, as a Soulard resident, Andrea understand the community in which our school strives to positively impact with our policies and actions.

Andrea joined the Board of Directors of The Soulard School in 2023.

“As a public school educator and Soulard Resident, I desire to serve my community, especially the children. The Soulard School provides an inclusive hands-on learning environment where students have autonomy in how they learn and teachers have autonomy in how they teach. There is something to be said about a school that promotes a sense of community and family while implementing a highly engaging curriculum.”
